...ohhhhh SIX!

By Christina Araj, Katie Bourget, Liz Weiderhold
Oracle Editors

The darkness of a hallway after the lights were turned off by a prankster, the quacking alarm of an unplanned fire drill, the rancid stench of a stink bomb dropped at Senior Rail—they're the sights, sounds and smells we've all grown accustomed to.

For the past four years, the graduates of 2006 have been students, athletes, musicians, actors, dancers, singers, techies, artists, fashion plates, mediators, captains, officers, editors, debaters, over- (and under-) achievers, volunteers, fans...above all, we were Spartans.

As freshmen, we tried our best not to fall down the stairs at Senior Rail and were forced to celebrate the Homecoming festivities indoors while the Sniper was still at large. Now, as seniors, we have claimed the infamous intersection of Hollywood and Vine (and the rest of the hallways) as our own, and John Allen Muhammad has been convicted of six counts of murder.

Sophomore year's soundtrack was the constant buzz of chicadas. The nasty little buggers provided daring eaters with a snack and the Class of '04 with a prank. But morally we were divided over the issue of the Confederate Flag and what it meant 200 years after its creation. Let's not forget the change to the school day, when our beautiful 15-minute break was slashed to 10 minutes...okay, so our school day got shorter, too, but still.

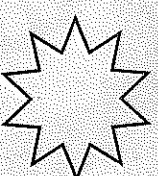

Junior year was marked by the deaths of three peers. It was also marked by stress. For the most of us, it was our first year tackling those dreadful AP courses. Weeks of sleepless nights due to AP's were then topped off by college prep and SAT testing.

But senior year, our year, we rushed to aid victims of Hurricane Katrina with clothing and supply drives and the always competitive Penny Wars. Through all the fundraising and senior rituals, we found time to face our most daunting of tasks: applying to college. But in the end, all the effort put forth resulted in college acceptances, and one of the most glamorous senior proms that WS has ever seen at the Mayflower Hotel in DC.

With the latest graduation in Fairfax County, on June 20, 2006 at 7:30 we will celebrate our last day as Spartans. It was a good run.
