'Excellent job, 007'

By Libby Bursley, Katie Costello, Sean Hogan, Josh Lipman, Chrissy Regelski & Jordy Serwin

Oracle Editors

For the last four years, the students of class of 2007 have done remarkable things on both individual and group levels, from state championships to academic achievements. We have done everything from running two miles in just over nine minutes to writing ten page essays in one night.

Freshman year was marked by the chirping of cicadas, which overshadowed the awkwardness of the new surroundings of WS. At the same time, our innocence was scarred by Justin Timberlake and Janet Jackson at the Superbowl XXXVIII halftime show. We cheered as Saddam Hussein was captured in a farmhouse in Iraq.

Our second year of high school was filled with the tragic losses of three classmates, as well as '92 grad Captain Mark Stubenhofer, our first to fall in Iraq. We also lost thousands as a result of the tsunami in the Indian Ocean. On a happier note, DC welcomed the Nationals as their home team and the Boston Red Sox reversed the Great Bambino's curse by winning the World Series.

Our junior year was filled with more stress than ever, with AP tests, SATs and college planning. We marched the streets of Springfield to show our opinions on immigration. We declared Penny Wars on the other classes in support of Hurricane Katrina in the Gulf Coast while welcoming some displaced students as our own.

Finally came senior year, where the amount of money we once thought insurmountable to raise for prom started to appear. We started getting letters back from colleges, which led both to tears of joy and broken hearts. Our principal, David Smith, announced that he would be leaving along with our class. Everything was going right until April 16, when thirty-two Virginia Tech students and faculty members were brutally murdered, some of whom we knew and more of whom we wish we did when we heard their heroic stories.

As this year ends with prom at the Key Bridge Marriott and commencement at the Patriot Center, we will remember both the good and bad times. Through it all, the class of 2007 has experienced both ends of the spectrum, and the most important thing is that we experienced it together.
